1911 Marmon Wasp

Earliest known rear-view mirror mounted on a racing vehicle appeared on Ray Harroun's Marmon race car at the inaugural Indianapolis 500 race in 1911.

Rearview Mirror

Although racing enthusiast Ray Harroun experimented with one as early as 1911 while driving in the Indianapolis 500, it was Elmer Berger who obtained the first patent in 1921.

Through his Berger and Company, he manufactured the rear-view mirror for automobile use.
