Question:	21865: Note #7 on Page 37 and the table of Spread Footing Variables on Page 38 of the plans dictate that the soil below the footing shall have a minimum nominal bearing resistance of 5.1 kips/sf. The only way to determine if the existing soil meets this criteria is to perform soil borings and test the soil at each spread footing location. Question:	21866: As a follow up to the previous question about the existing soils beneath the spread footers needing to meet a nominal bearing resistance of 5.1 kips/sf. If the existing soils do not meet this criteria, will the contractor be compensated to remove the deficient soils and replace them with suitable soils? If removal is not required, what will be the solution?	Posted:	4/17/2018 4:39:53 PM
Question:	21961: It appeared that the previous asked questions were within the allotted deadline for asking questions, but we still do not have any answers. Some questions require follow up, but this will be difficult, when the project bids tomorrow. Can the bid date be postponed, due to the fact that we do not have answers to our questions yet?
