Since there is no longer a differentiation in the classifications, there are several items to be addressed.

1. In 713-1 the second sentence should be deleted: "Stripes and markings are identified as High Performance".

Response:

2. The title of 713-4.3.2 should be changed to "Retroreflectivity". This is consistent with the other marking specifications.

Comment: (6-25-13) Shouldn't this section be named: Permanent Tape Traffic Stripes and Markings. I recommend that you reword the first sentence of 713-1 to say: Apply high performance, permanent tape traffic stripes and markings in accordance with the Contract Documents. The second sentence is too passive.

Comment: (7-11-13) RE: removing standard tape from 713 and 971, I agree with the change. My question is on the terminology and structure of the specs....if all we're left with is high-performance tape, doesn't that just become our permanent tape without any types? Or is "high-performance" still an industry term that we need to keep?

Response: It is an industry term. There are other tapes that are considered standard tapes, which could not meet our specifications. No Change Made
